

Capture Your Attendee Voice

Have a SlapFive Minute Booth at your next customer conference, advisory board meeting, and user group

- Create more buzz before, during, and after your customer events.
- Strike while the iron is hot, while your attendees are in a great mood.
- Make it fun for your customers to share their authentic voice.

How it works

1

Our customer voice consultant works with you to identify what types of insights to capture from your attendees.

2

We set up the Minute Booth in a highly visible, high-traffic area.

4

We stream videos to an event-branded channel, play them on monitors at the conference, and post them to Twitter.

3

We record attendees on video as they answer 2-3 questions each in a minute or less.

What you get

A collection of authentic, customer stories in video format that you can use to build excitement for future customer events and to provide customer validation.

If you're a user of the SlapFive Customer Voice Engine, we'll upload them to your library so you can easily inject them into every marketing, sales, and customer success initiative.

Go to www.SlapFive.com/minutebooth to see photos and examples

